HOME RULE IN TAXES URGED

Plan to Solve Pressing Revenue Problem Confronting Ohio Cities Recommended by Governor Davis In His Message to the Legislature

Adoption of "Iron-Handed" Policy In the Enforcement of All Laws Is Also Asked of Lawmakers by the New Executive

COLUMBUS.—(By Associated Press.)—In a message addressed "to the people of the commonwealth and the Eighty-Fourth General Assembly," delivered as his inaugural address today, Governor Harry L. Davis pledged his administration to do these things:

1—Redeem campaign pledges by conducting the business of the state as nearly as possible like any successful private business is managed. Abolition of all unnecessary commissions and wiping out of duplication of efforts which he declared is now apparent in many branches of the government.

2—Solving the pressing problem of taxation in cities by application of the principle of home rule in taxation and at the same time retaining the Smith one per cent law as a guarantee to the rural communities that they will not have to pay any of the cost of operation of the government of cities.

3—Adoption of a "iron-handed policy" in the enforcement of all laws and the creation of a state prohibition enforcement staff with which to as are a systematic carrying out of the provisions of the Crabbie Act throughout the state.

4—Adoption of an attitude of firmness in dealing with prisoners in penal institutions. Halting too free an application of the pardoning power and restrict the granting of freedom to prisoners before expiration of their terms to the fewest and most clearly meritorious cases.

5—To conduct an inquiry to determine a plan of highway development as will most effectually serve to improve the marketing system and a program of road construction making it possible to build and complete thoroughfares first.

6—Adequate provisions for carrying on Americanization work on a broad scale and to "make this state an unhealthy place for Bolsheviks and anarchoists."

7—Putting teeth in the state blue sky law and make investigation of proposed stock selling schemes so rigid that none but clearly legitimate ones will be able to do business.

HOUSES BURNED

A tank was thrown into action at Dillon's Cross, county Cork. It was used to batter down a stone wall, which had concealed ambushers two weeks ago. Two buildings were burned as punishment for that ambush.

Raids were conducted in Cork. Among the prisoners were two young girls, one of them with a revolver hidden in her corset, the other with a pistol in her pocket. The soldiers made a careful search of residences of many suspected Sinn Feiners, removing large quantities of documents, but making few arrests.

WORKMEN GUARDED

Guarded by a force of policemen estimated at two hundred, city laborers to the number of 100, were taken early Sunday morning to Mack and St. Jean-avenue, where the work of crossing the Detroit United Railways Mack-avenue line was begun.

Burdick, who had obtained the injunction from Judge Dingeman Saturday, appeared and asserted he had been called to serve the injunction upon Joseph S. Goodwin, manager of the city railway system, when he was taken into custody by a policeman on a charge of disturbing the peace, and placed in a patrol wagon. The patrol wagon, Burdick stated, was driven across the Belle Isle drawbridge to the Island police station.

HELD ON ISLAND

The patrol wagon was driven back to the city and after the elapse of about an hour Burdick said he was released by the police. He was unable to return to the city, however, because the drawbridge is not lowered for any except police traffic after midnight.

Burdick, with the injunction papers in his pocket, was forced to wait on the island, he said, until early morning, while the work of crossing the D. U. R. lines was completed. Police officials admitted Sunday that Burdick had been taken to the Island station.

The St. Jean-avenue line of the new municipal street railway system has been one of the storm centers of the fight between the D. U. R. and the city in recent weeks. In 1919, according to the company, it contracted with the city to build this line and began construction but later was ordered to discontinue building by the city after the voters had approved of the municipal railway project.

Conflicting reports of the raid and ambushes reached the neutral in Dublin. According to whether he is talking with Sinn Fein or government sympathizers, the investigator is given diametrically opposing accounts of every occurrence.

Sinn Feiners Enter Dublin to Attack Military Forces

CUT WAY THRU BARBED WIRE

Assault is Frustrated When Plot is Revealed

DUBLIN.—(By United Press)—Military forces here frustrated a plan for a Sinn Fein attack in the heart of Dublin.

As reported at headquarters today, a body of Sinn Feiners cut thru the barbed wire barricade of a long stretch of road leading into the city, planning to ambush troops. Soldiers were rushed to the place and took a number of prisoners.

The incident was only one of a number of skirmishes during the week-end.

Raids were conducted in Cork. Among the prisoners were two young girls, one of them with a revolver hidden in her corset, the other with a pistol in her pocket. The soldiers made a careful search of residences of many suspected Sinn Feiners, removing large quantities of documents, but making few arrests.

OHIO'S NEW GOVERNOR

OFFICIALS MAY BE WILLIS APPOINTED IN CONTEMPT U. S. SENATOR

Action Taken Against Detroit Authorities in Rail Row

COLUMBUS.—(By Associated Press)—Appointment of former Governor Frank B. Willis of Delaware as United States senator, to fill the unexpired term of President-elect Warren G. Harding, was the first official act of Governor Harry L. Davis following his inauguration as governor at noon today.

Mr. Willis was present at the inaugural ceremonies and was tendered his commission in the governor's office immediately following the inaugural ceremonies. He became senator at once and will go to Washington to be sworn in as Senator Harding's successor. Senator Willis begins the term for which he was elected last November on March 4.

As received by Governor Davis, Senator Harding's resignation was effective today, instead of January 15, as stated in Marion advices.

Senator Willis announced that C. A. Jones of Columbus, who was publicity director of the recent Republican campaign in Ohio, would be his private secretary. Miss Margaret Crowley of Galion, will be his stenographer and Ralph Dodd will act as his clerk.

Senator Willis will go to Washington Wednesday, but said he may not be sworn in until next Monday.

ROBBERS CHASED

Attempt to Loot Kentucky Bank is Frustrated

COLUMBIA, KY.—Five men early today unsuccessfully attempted to rob the Bank of Columbia. They were pursued to Lebanon, forty miles away, where a fusillade from pump guns and other fire arms failed to stop them.

Inasmuch as no trace has been found of the automobile in which the robbers fled, authorities believe members of the band have been wounded and are secreted in the hills.

Salute of Seventeen Guns Is Fired as Ohio's New Executive Is Inducted Into Office—National Anthem Sung by Thousands of Citizens

Cox Retires to Private Life as He Presents to Successor His Commission—Great Street Parade, Headed by General Speaks, Follows

COLUMBUS.—(By Associated Press)—With the firing of a salute of 17 guns from a big cannon operated by "Jack Tars" from the Ohio naval militia, the singing of the national anthem by thousands of Buckeye citizens assembled to do him honor, Harry L. ### PRICES OF LUMBER FIXED, CLAIM

Alleged "Trust's" Activities Reported to Congress

LETTERS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Evidences of Combine Obtained Thru Investigation

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press)—An extensive investigation into the activities of lumber manufacturers thru their national and regional associations is being made by the department of justice, with the assistance of the federal trade commission.

This is disclosed in a report sent today to congress by the commission in connection with the inquiry being conducted by the senate committee on housing and reconstruction. The report, the commission says, is designed to show the activities of the manufacturers and their attitude towards "national legislation, amendments to the revenue laws, elimination of competitive woods, control of prices and production, restriction of reforestation and other matters."

The report contains a mass of correspondence said to have passed between various officials of several of the regional associations relating to prices and many other subjects, but it contains no conclusions, says Chairman Thompson, in his letter of transmittal. The "documents submitted are merely informative and should not be regarded as comprehending all the information with the commission."

WORK OF ORGANIZATION

It is set out that the lumber manufacturers in the approximately ten different lumber sections of the country have organized regional associations, which have formed the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, with headquarters at Chicago.

Each regional section, the report says, "compiles statistics upon production, market conditions in general, sales reports showing actual prices obtained for lumber and established and maintains uniform grading and a uniform cost account system. Various other activities are undertaken to accomplish the purpose of their organization."

The principal regional associations listed as constituting the National Association are the Southern Pine Association, West Coast Lumber Association, Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers' Association, Northern Pine Manufacturers' Association, Georgia-Florida Saw Mill Association, Southern Cypress Association, Michigan Hardwood Manufacturers' Association and the California Sugar and White Pine Manufacturers' Association.

Governor Wants Rigid Action Against Stock Schemes

CURB ON PRISON FREEDOM

Favors Halting Too Frequent Use of Pardoning Power

fit to its people—that I enter upon my duties as your Governor. It is a purpose the public has a right to expect.

The trust thus reposed in us calls for our most scrupulous adherence to the pledges on the strength of which we asked for the support of the men and women of Ohio. It calls for a adoption of a progressive policy that will assure the most effective performance of the important tasks waiting to be done.

For we will be judged from now upon our work rather than upon our promises, upon our acts rather than our words. Just as our economic conditions today demand a rolling up of our sleeves and a getting down to fundamentals to bring back normal conditions as soon as possible, so our state problems call for a similar attitude. It is a time for more work and less talk.

It is our purpose to conduct the public business as nearly as possible like any successful private business is managed. Such methods and measurement of the work of the state will ure as will make for the better performance of their political effect. The cause of good government can be served best only by serving the people best, that is, by thoro, business-like conduct of the public affairs. Only in the constant pursuit of such a policy can the people's continued confidence in this administration find justification.

CITIZEN COOPERATION

In meeting the weighty problems awaiting solution, we hope to have the best minds in the state co-operate with us in working out the methods best suited to the situation. We shall, from time to time, as the occasion requires, call upon the foremost authorities in Ohio on financial and other questions to meet and work with us on these public problems.

I feel there is today a public split between and interest in public affairs which should make public officials feel free to call upon any citizen who may be helpful. And all citizens should stand ready to be of such assistance as they may, to their state and nation, even this may involve some personal sacrifice.

In Ohio, I am satisfied, there is no dearth of public-spirited men and women who will respond cheerfully to the state's call for service. The war demonstrated this spirit which, I feel confident, still lives and will continue to live in the hearts of our people.

Thus the advantage of such aid, we hope to be able to have Ohio become all that you would have your state be.

LEGISLATIVE CO-OPERATION

The members of the Legislature, individually and collectively, are disposed, I feel convinced, to co-operate with the executive branch in every way possible, toward the enactment of such legislation as is deemed necessary to insure good government. It is only with such co-operation that the best results can be obtained. I feel encouraged in the thought that all will work in harmony—with the sole motive to be helpful in the proper transaction of the state's business.

I strongly believe, judging from the personnel of this General Assembly, that its work of enacting just and helpful legislation will be such as to reflect great credit upon its members and upon the commonwealth.

Upon the shoulders of the Governor and other elective executives—State Attorney General, State Auditor, and State Treasurer—rests the responsibility for the administrative work of the government, including enforcement of the law. None will try to shirk any of the responsibility.

In surveying the condition of the state, I am impressed with the extraordinary importance of some of the public problems which we are facing today, and with the urgent necessity of legislation that will aid their speedy and effective solution.

ECONOMY

The heavy financial burden which has been placed upon the people by the war, the effect of which will reflect in the form of heavy and unprecedented taxation and in the high cost of living generally, demands that all government activities be carried forward with the utmost economy compatible with good government and sound business methods.

I consider this problem among the most important confronting this administration. It calls for serious consideration of every method which will permit the saving of the public funds, and yet will not sacrifice the quality of the public services.

In carrying out such a policy of retrenchment, there will be room only for the highest type of employees, and every attention must be given that none but persons specially qualified for the work they are to perform will be in the state's service. A large force of employees does not always produce the best results. Frequently a lesser number, but selected with a regard for efficiency and training, will render a vastly higher degree of service.

In some departments, it will be advisable to reduce the number of employees and increase the salaries of the others somewhat in order to make the positions attractive to the type of persons best qualified to occupy them.

GOOD ROADS

The condition of Ohio's highway system, and the economic effect which can be directly traced from it upon the farmer and the consumer of his products, is a subject which deserves and demands our closest attention. Similarly, industry today, then the coming of the automobile truck as a widely used method of transportation, has a vital interest in the good roads problem.

All unnecessary commissions should be abolished without delay, and departments generally reorganized with a view to maximum economy and efficiency.

In connection with this subject, I desire to refer to statement of my predecessor that the state's cash balance on June 30, last was $9,011,183—emphasizing this as the largest balance at the end of any previous year.

To avoid the possibility of a misunderstanding, I believe it should be explained that this is not a balance that can be used for general state purposes. It should be understood that it consists largely of special fund balances.

Nearly $8,000,000 of it belongs to the state highway fund and must be spent for state highway purposes. The high condition of this fund is due to the extensive retardation of highway work in recent years.

The only part of the balance quoted by my predecessor that is usable for general state expenses is $931,063.78—the general fund balance on June 30, 1920. This is the amount to which the general fund has dropped from a balance of $7,028,301.98, which is contained on December 31, 1912. It shows the crying need for the exercise of the most rigid economy by this government.

TAXATION

The cities of Ohio for years have labored under serious handicaps financially, due chiefly to their rapid growth, the increase generally of the cost of all commodities and labor and the nature of the tax revenue to come from the changed conditions.

On the other hand the rural communities must not be expected to pay increased taxation, any part of the cost of operating the government of the metropolitan centers. It would be highly unjust to the farmer to saddle on him a burden of this kind.

No solution of the cities' financial problems is to be considered which would compel the agricultural elements to help support the cities. The principle of the Smith one percent tax must continue to safeguard against such possibility.

An effective solution of the pressing problem of the cities, with the farmer readily protected, is to be found, however, thru application of the principle of Home Rule in Taxation. Under the application of it, the people of each community have the right to declare by their vote whether, and if so how much, they wish to tax themselves. In excess of the Smith law limitation, for the effective maintenance of the various municipal activities.

I earnestly recommend that the establishment of the principle of Home Rule in Taxation be given immediate consideration by the General Assembly, with a view to early enactment of law that will carry it into effect so far as it is now possible under the state constitution.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

Of particular urgency at this time in the general public interest is the matter of strict law enforcement to which this administration is pledged and for the fulfillment of which further legislation be enacted so that prohibition may be made rigidly effective.

There is now no longer a wet and dry problem. For the people have spoken. They have definitely disposed of that question. It is now the duty of all public officials strictly to carry out the people's mandate by an iron-hand policy in the enforcement of all laws.

A year ago, the 83rd General Assembly enacted House Bill No. 629, commonly called the Crabbie Act, designed to prohibit the liquor traffic and to provide for the administration and enforcement of such prohibition. This measure was submitted to a referendum of the people last November, was approved by the voters and is now the law.

This measure leaves the matter of enforcement entirely to local officials in the various communities. It can be forced to the conclusion that because of this localization of enforcement, the most effective results are not to be obtained under the law as it now stands. It is certain to lead to a kind of enforcement that will vary in degree and effectiveness in different localities.

With the will of the people with reference to the traffic expressed at the polls, the state government is now locked to for its abolishment. Every possibility of laxity in the liquor law enforcement, whether statewide or locally, must be eliminated.

The accomplishment of this result lies in uniformly strict application of the Crabbie Act in every section. Such uniformity of policy and practice, I believe, can be assured only by placing the task of enforcement directly into the hands of state authorities, thus the creation of a state prohibition enforcement staff. Such a working force, co-operating with local and federal authorities in detail, will at once assure a systematic carrying out of the provisions of the Crabbie Act, the length and breadth of the state, and will give the executive department of the government, bearing the responsibility of enforcement, a direct and definite means with which to discharge it.

I, therefore, urgently recommend that legislation be enacted providing for the establishment, as a part of the administrative machinery of the state government, of a prohibition enforcement bureau coupled with a staff charged with the duty of carrying out the provisions of the Crabbie Act.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS

The menace to society from indiscriminate discharge of habitual law-breakers demands an attitude of firm action should be with a view to encouraging and helping those of foreign birth, to acquire a thorough knowledge of our institutions, our laws, our language and our history. They should be aided to become real Americans in the briefest time possible.

Large parts of the populations of our big cities are composed of persons of foreign origin. I urge, that adequate provision be made for carrying on such Americanization work on a broad scale, and thus help stamp out Bolshevism and anarchy. As Governor it will be my endeavor to make the state an unhealthy place for Bolsheviks and anarchists.

EDUCATION

In Ohio State University the commonwealth has an educational institution which should become the largest and best state university in the United States. This is evidenced by the development of the institution in recent years, and I desire especially to ask the co-operation of the General Assembly in the effort which I propose to make to help Ohio State University attain that goal in the not too far distant future.

Equal attention should be given to the other institutions of education of the State of Ohio, and every effort made so to develop them that their facilities will be constantly improved, and their benefits made available to an ever-increasing number. In that connection, some provision should be made for library facilities in rural districts where they are now wholly lacking.

PERFORMANCE OF ALL PLEDGES

I especially recommend to the consideration of members of the General Assembly the various pledges embodied in the Republican state platform, and ask their help toward the fullest compliance with them. I deem the performance of these party promises as a solemn duty to which we are pledged, and the performance of which calls for our best efforts.

AMONGMENT OF LEGISLATURE

In the interest of economy, and in order that the benefits of the work of this Legislature may be available as soon as possible, I ask that everything be done to hasten the work of this session of the General Assembly, and to allow adjournment at the earliest date.

There appears to have been a feeling on the part of some of the past Legislatures that a record could only be established by the enactment of a multiplicity of laws. I am inclined to believe the people have the conviction, which I share, that enactment of fewer laws, but with a greater consideration of their value in meeting specific problems, would effect an immensely higher record. I wish to urge, therefore, that only such laws be enacted as are required to carry on the work of the state.

Further I request the fullest cooperation of the General Assembly, and of every member personally, in the plans and policies upon which this administration proposes to carry forward its work to the end that there will be a singleness of purpose in the fulfillment of the high duty with which the people of the Commonwealth have honored us.

Our performance of that duty will be approached with the determination, in all official acts, always to reflect the will of the people and carefully to watch their interests. And finally, for the performance of that duty in the most effective manner, I appeal for the co-operation of the people and humbly invoke the blessing of Divine Providence.

HARRY L. DAVIS,
Governor of Ohio.

She was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal church in 1902 and remained a faithful church worker until death.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, little step-daughter, father, 2 brothers, 3 sisters and a large circle of friends.

There is a double responsibility we owe with respect to those who come to our state from foreign lands. Our duty to help them is in part to the newcomers, and in part to the Commonwealth and to the nation.

In dealing with this problem, all

WAPAKONETA—Somebody blundered at the Dayton military hospital when the body of William H. Kipp, world war veteran who died there, was prepared for shipment to relatives at New Knoxville. When Kipp was taken to the Dayton hospital November 17, for treatment, he was attired in the regulation U. S. army uniform.

When the body arrived here, it was attired in an old civil war uniform, in poor condition. Relatives were loth to accept the body and when the attention of Secretary C. W. Timmermeister of the Red Cross was called to the incident, he started an investigation that resulted in a promise that proper uniform would be sent at once. Timmermeister threatened to appeal to Washington.

The incident resulted in considerable feeling among the people of New Knoxville and vicinity.

Owners of chickens here are losing large numbers of fowls, from an epidemic of roup. For the most part, laying hens are affected, it is stated. It is estimated that more than hundred hens died in this city last week. The disease that is creating the havoc among fowls is not communicable to humans, it is stated.

Funeral services for John H. Zenglein, 83, who died suddenly, were held Monday afternoon from the residence, N. Blackfoot St. in charge of Rev. C. F. Schmidt of St. Paul's church. Burial was made in Greenlawn cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Zenglein had no children, but during their long life reared several other children.

Three times in less than two months, election suit of Elmira Firestone and J. E. Devon against Roma McCabe has been heard. Firestone and Devon seek to oust McCabe from possession of the Grand Opera house at St. Mary's. McCabe's lease expired July 1, 1920, but it was shown that the plaintiff accepted cash rental after that time. Twice, in common pleas and justice of the peace court, McCabe won a decision, continuing possession. The third hearing was terminated Saturday before Justice of the Peace Guy Herrmann here, who has reserved decision until next Friday.

George Ashby, an itinerant scissor grinder, arrested at Cridersville a month ago on a charge of robbing a home and found by the sheriff to be armed with a revolver and several dirk knives, was released Saturday from the county jail.

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Albers were held Monday morning, in charge of the Rev. C. E. Schmidt. Interment was made at the Lock Two cemetery.

Interesting Comparisons Made by Official Figures

NEW YORK — (By Associated Press) — Interesting comparisons of the popular vote for President in 1920 and 1916 are made possible by official figures of various state election canvassing boards, compiled by the Associated Press and made public here today. They show a total popular vote of 26,759,708 for the candidates of seven parties as compared with a total popular vote of 15,173,340 for the candidates of five parties in 1916. The returns from Tennessee alone are unofficial.

NEW YORK VOTE

Harding's plurality over Cox was 7,001,763, four years ago.

President Wilson's plurality over Charles Evans Hughes was 591,385.

New York State gave Harding a vote of 1,868,411, his largest return in any one state, as compared with 780,744 for Cox. Ohio, the state of both the Republican and Democratic candidates, gave Harding 1,182,022 and Cox 780,627. Illinois gave them, respectively, 1,420,480 and 534,294.

The 1920 vote for Eugene V. Debs, socialist candidate, was 914,869, while in 1916 Debs polled only 583,135. Four years previously, however, Debs rolled up a vote of 97,411. The socialist party vote in New York State was 203,114, a gain of 157,170 over 1916 and of 139,732 over 1912. Debs polled only 28 votes in South Carolina and 38 in Idaho, while in Vermont the party failed to nominate.

PROHIBITIONISTS SLUMP

Dr. Aaron Watkins, nominee of the Prohibitionists, polled a total vote of 187,470, a decrease of 33,636 from the party vote of 1916.

Out of a total of more than half a million votes cast in North Carolina the "dry" candidate received 17.

Georgia gave him 8. Greater New York including New York, Bronx, Kings, Queens and Richmond, cast with a total vote of 1,276,768, polled 1,660 "dry" ballots.

The total vote polled by Parley Christensen, Farmer-Labor nominee, was 252,435, all cast in eighteen states. Cox, the Socialist-Labor candidate, received 42,050 votes and Macaulay, nominee of the Single Tax party, 5,747.

CHURCH SERVICE HELD

IN PITTSBURGH HEARD BY

WIRELESS AT YOUNGSTOWN

YOUNGSTOWN — Amateur radio operators here reported today that they had heard a service in a Pittsburgh church last night, which was sent out by wireless telephone in a series of experiments being conducted by the Westinghouse company of Pittsburgh. The speaker's voice could be plainly heard, the operators said, but the words could be distinguished only "occasionally." They reported much "interference" by radio work.

ST. MARY'S — Owners of automobiles unprovided with 1921 license tags will be arrested on and after Tuesday, January 11, when found traversing St. Mary's highways, Sojourner David Armstrong, Jr., says.

A Great Discovery

Swollen hands, ankles, feet are due to a dropsical condition, often caused by disordered kidneys. Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles and wrists.

As a remedy for those easily recognized symptoms of indigestion caused by urine acids, the medicine urine, baking-soda and frequent urination, as well as treatment in the urine, or urine acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, lambs, sciatica, gout, etc. and we are now suddenly and rapidly recovering.

"Anuric" is the discovery of Dr. Amuric, the discoverer of Dr.

Amuric, and is now sold by all good druggists and is highly recommended by Baldwin's Central Drug Store, corner Main and High Sts. — Adv.

For a package of "Anuric," which is many times more potent than lithia,

GOVERNOR HARRY L. DAVIS

AT 1 o'clock Monday the oath of office was administered to Harry L. Davis and he became the Governor of the state of Ohio, succeeding James M. Cox, who retires to private life, after having three times been elected as Governor of his state and during whose tenure of office more progressive legislation was written into law for the benefit of all the people of the Buckeye commonwealth than in a half century previously.

No encomiums are necessary at this time for James M. Cox. He measured up well as the chief executive of the state. He did his duty faithfully and fearlessly as he saw it. He retires with an enviable record for service and accomplishment. His name is written large on the record of progress of Ohio. History will accord him a deserved place among the most celebrated men ever produced by the Buckeye state.

It is now Governor Harry L. Davis, who resigned as mayor of Cleveland to enter the lists as a candidate for the Republican nomination of Governor. Winning in a three-cornered primary fight, Davis was assailed on all sides for his record as mayor of Cleveland, but in spite of the fight made against him in his own party, was carried on the crest of the high Republican tide that swept the state in November.

Governor Davis has a myriad of problems to meet that to be successfully disposed of requires the guiding hand and the strong character of a big man. Whether he will measure up to the requirement remains to be seen. Only the future can answer.

However that may be, the most ardent of the enemies of Davis in the election must now remember that he is the Governor of the best state in the union, elected by a majority of the people and that as such Governor he expects and has a right to demand the support of all the people in matters affecting the welfare of the state.

We salute you, Governor Harry L. Davis'

OUR FIRE DANGER

HERE is genuine cause for alarm in the annual report just filed by Fire Chief Mack in which he says parts of the city are at the mercy of fire because of inadequate means of fighting it. If the statements of the chief are correct, immediate steps should be taken to correct the condition of which he complains.

At the best, fire takes a heavy toll. Lima has been fortunate during the last year in not having many big conflagrations. The loss has been low when compared to other cities, but if parts of the city are exposed to the danger mentioned in Mr. Mack's report, none can say when entire blocks will be wiped out and Lima dealt a blow that will be felt for years to come.

Council ought not delay a complete investigation to determine where the weak spots are in our fire-fighting equipment and then remedy them.

The recommendation that the use of rubber hose for gas connections be banned by city ordinance also should not be overlooked. Most cities prohibit by ordinance this practice as a fire prevention.

WELTY ATTACKS A GOVERNOR

IT isn't at all difficult to agree with Congressman B. F. Welty that Governor Stephens of California is overstepping the bounds of reason and right and fairness, if he is carrying on a propaganda of misrepresentation for the purpose of establishing a "special national laundry to wash the dirty linen of a state" as Congressman Welty asserts.

All this has to do with Governor Stephens' method of dealing with the Japanese question. It appears that his plan, as submitted, would result in congress being unable to solve the immigration problem without giving wilful offense and still exclude all aliens who cannot or will not fit into our national life.

Welty has probably been as much or more interested in the immigration question than any other member of congress. He sees the danger of the admission of foreigners at the rate they are now coming to our shores. In the matter of the Japanese situation, anyone who has toured the west can easily understand why the people of the western coast states are viewing with alarm the condition that now exists and which is daily growing more menacing.

The Jap never has and probably never will be assimilated in America. He brings to these shores the traditions and customs of his homeland and he retains them having no desire, for the most part, to become an American citizen. By a surplus of energy and thrift, of frugality and denial of personal comfort and by crowding the productive possibilities of the soil to the limit, the Jap has forged ahead in the west, acquiring lands and crowding the American farmer back. They are keen, drive hard bargains, they are progressive, buy the best agricultural implements, the best horses and control the markets in the lines in which they are engaged.

Japs control the fisheries of the west coast and apparently have set out to control the food markets along all lines. They "flock" together, trade with one another and drive hard for trade among Americans. The Jap question is one that must be met by the national government instead of the state of California. It cannot be disposed of by California any more than the United States could leave the settlement of the Mexican question to Texas.

WOMAN'S NEW SPHERE

ACTION by the Allen-co fair board in adopting a resolution giving women the right to vote for members of the board of directors of the county agricultural society and to hold office as members of the board, is only another example of the forward movement apparent on every hand in extending equal rights to women, since they have been enfranchised by the suffrage amendment.

Many avenues of activity are opening to women. They demonstrated their ability during the war to do their part in a big way in most any contingency. There is no doubt but that the experiences of the war hastened favorable action on suffrage in the last of the necessary 36 states to make the suffrage amendment applicable to the entire United States.

Women are now serving as jurors; they have the right and are seeking elective offices and appointive places. They are not overlooking anything where they feel that one of their sex is capable of meeting the conditions. Allen-co has a woman deputy sheriff, probably the first in Ohio and women are considering the recommendation of one or more of their sex for the position of postmaster in this city.

If reappraisal of real estate is ordered, women are eligible to and probably will in some districts seek appointment as appraisers. The bestowal of equal rights is looked upon by some women as more of a figure of speech than meaning anything really tangible. But with others it means exactly what it says and they are quick to see their opportunities.

The fair board acted properly in adopting a resolution opening membership on the board to women. As time goes on other avenues of activity will be opened to the gentler sex, as their right under the law.

It has been a good many moons since we have seen any man turn on the street and look at a woman who was wearing one of the short ones, even one of Ben-Har length. These writers evidently do not understand the masculine mind (so called). Men got over looking at short skirts many months ago. ### MORE AUTODETONICATION

In the last letter on the subject, I made an assertion that there is no such thing as autodetonation so far as any body has yet been able to prove, and I followed this assertion up in my usual way of combating the mere anxiety or worry over the failure of the bowels to act, as the introspective individual thinks they should act, accounts for the disagreeable symptoms which come on so soon after such worry begins, symptoms too familiar to victims of autodetonation obsession, but which do not intend to mention here.

What between the lifelong teaching of old Doctor Bunker and his colleague and the thousand and one nostrum vendors who first heard the prospect of the symptoms and then sold him the deepest秘药, and the specious, the all too plausible explanations of fifty-seven varieties of modern druggists, charlatans, the average druggist, quack, you know, the gullible layman, harbors a more or less settled conviction that health, life and happiness all hinge largely upon liver and the proper action of the bowels. There is actually a popular obsession that whatever else is done or not done in any illness it is always the proper thing to take a brisk cathartic indeed, a lot of tonics where there are not more than a millimeter over of a physician as something that removes poisons, matter from the system where in fact no physician accomplishes any such effect.

Now, please do not throw the paper down in disgust and please do not write in to tell me how clever I am and you can see why they are publicizing such of the staff as the layman seems to do, no doubt it must seem utterly unscientific to anyone who has been brought up on a learned liver reader's blood purifier and urine acidifying such as the almanacs and the nostrum test-

Starling tomorrow, we "rip the cover right off" prices in our Men's Department. Nothing we could say would add to the above announcement in black type, which tells the entire story.

Determined to close out completely all Winter Shoes and Oxfords, we have cut the price down to the point where men are practically forced to buy.

This cut takes care of three different things: The break in wholesale prices—any further breaks that may happen next Spring—besides our usual Midwinter reductions.

Men should anticipate their shoe needs for months to come. There will never be a more favorable chance to buy high-grade shoes.

Hundreds mystified by the great Nella Asmi at the Sigma yesterday. Hundreds unable to crowd into the theatre.

Seemingly the entire population of Lancaster are telling you the truth of Nella's desire to entertain that or not. This great man is the added attraction to the fashion at a very high class picture theatre yesterday as hundreds of spectators were unable to get in. The picture, "The County Fair," was a smash hit and received a standing ovation. The audience was spellbound by the picture's power and beauty.

The exhibition of mental telepathy is the most remarkable and in one of the cases of the highest comment yesterday.

Nella Asmi has arranged to give a special matinee Friday afternoon. He tells you how you can pose for ladies only. Any lady can ask them to know whether any person may question she desires. Nella Asmi, husband, friend or acquaintance will answer same.

THE MIDDLE TEMPLE MURDER

By J. S. FLETCHER

"Do you recognize that photograph as that of anybody you know?" he asked. "Look at it well and closely."

Mr. Quarterpage put on a special pair of spectacles and studied the photograph from several points of view.

"No sir," he said at last with a shake of the head. "I don't recognize it at all."

"Can't see in it any resemblance to any man you're ever known?" asked Spargo.

"No, sir, none," replied Mr. Quarterpage. "None whatever."

"Very well," said Spargo, laying the photograph on the table between them.

"Now, then, I want you to tell me what John Maitland was like when you knew him. Also, I want you to describe Chamberlayne as he was when he died, or was supposed to die. You remember them, of course, quite well?"

Mr. Quarterpage got up and moved to the door.

"I can do better than that," he said. "I can show you photographs of both men as they were just before Maitland's trial. I have a photograph of a small group of Market Master notabilities which was taken at an municipal garden party; Maitland and Chamberlayne are both in it. It's been put away in a cabinet in my drawing room for many a long year, and now I've doubt it's as fresh as when it was taken."

He left the room and presently returned with a large mounted photograph which he laid on the table before his visitor.

"There you are, sir," he said. "Quite fresh, you see—it must be getting on to twenty years since that was taken out of the drawer that it's been kept in. Now, that's Maitland. And that's Chamberlayne."

Spargo found himself looking at a group of men who stood against an ivy-covered wall in the stiff attitudes in which photographers arrange masses of sitters. He fixed his目光 on the two figures indicated by Mr. Quarterpage, and saw two men medium-height, rather sturdy built men about whom there was nothing very especially noticeable, "After he said, musingly. "Both bearded."

"Yes, they both wore beards—full beards," asserted Mr. Quarterpage.

"And you see, they weren't much alike. But Maitland was a good deal taller than Chamberlayne, and he had brown eyes, while Chamberlayne's were rather a bright blue."

"The removal of a beard makes a great difference," remarked Spargo. He looked at the photograph of Maitland in the group, comparing it with that of Marbury which he had taken from his pocket. "And twenty years make a difference, too," he added musingly.

"To some people twenty years makes a vast difference, sir," said the old gentleman. "To others it makes none—I haven't changed much, tell me during the last twenty years. But I've known men change—almost beyond recognition—in five years. It depends, sir, on what they go thru."

Spargo suddenly laid aside the photograph, put his hands in his pockets and looked steadfastly at Mr. Quarterpage.

"Look here!" he said. "I'm going to tell you what I'm after, Mr. Quarterpage. I'm sure you've heard of what's known as the Middle Temple murder—the Marbury

"Yes, I've read of it," replied Mr. Quarterpage.

"Have you read the accounts of it in my paper, the Watchman?" asked Spargo.

Mr. Quarterpage shook his head.

"I've only read one newspaper, sir, and I was a young man," he replied.

"I take the Times, sir, and always took it, aye, even in the days when newspapers were taxed."

"Very good," said Spargo, "but perhaps I can tell you a little more about it than you've read, for I've been working up that case ever since the body of the man known as John Marbury was found. Now, it'll just give you the bare attention. I'll tell you the whole story from that moment un-der."

And Spargo, briefly, succinctly, related the story of the Marbury case from the first instant of his own contact with it until the discovery of the silver ticket ticket, and Mr. Quarterpage listened in rapt attention, holding his head from time to time as the younger man made his points.

"And now, Mr. Quarterpage," concluded Spargo, "this is the point I've come to. I believe that the man who came to the Ago-Orient Hotel was John Marbury and who was undoubtedly murdered was John Maitland. I haven't a doubt about that after learning what you tell me about the silver ticket. I've found out a great deal that's valuable here, and I think I'm getting nearer to a solution of the mystery. That is, of course, to find out who murdered John Maitland, or Marbury. What you have told me about the Chamberlayne affair has led me to think this—there may have been people, or a person in London, who was anxious to get Marbury, as well as him, out of the way, and who somehow encountered him that night anxious to silence him. I mean because of the Chamberlayne affair. And I wondered, as there is so much mystery about him, and as he won't give any account of himself, if this man Alymore was really Chamberlayne. Yes, I wondered that! But Alymore's a tall, finely built man, quite six feet in height, and his beard, the it's now getting grizzled, has been very dark, and Chamberlayne, you say, was medium-sized, fair man with blue eyes."

"That's so, sir," asserted Mr. Quarterpage. "Yes, a middling-sized man, and fair—very fair. Deary me, Mr. Spargo—is this a revelation. And you really think sir that John Maitland and John Marbury are one and the same person?"

"I'm sure of it, now," said Spargo. "I see it in this way. Maitland, on his release, went out to Australia, and there he stopped. At last he comes back, evidently well-to-do. He's murdered the very day of his arrival. Alymore is the only man who knows anything of him—Alymore won't tell all he knows, that's flat. But Alymore's admitted that he knew him at some vague date, say from twenty-one to twenty-two years ago. Now, where did Alymore know him? He says in London. That's a vague term. He won't say anything definite—he won't say what he, Alymore, hit him was in those days. Do you remember anything or anybody like Alymore coming here to see Maitland, Mr. Quarterpage?"

"I don't," answered Mr. Quarterpage. Maitland was a very quiet, retiring fellow, sir; he was about the quietest man in the town. I never remember of such a friend of his as this Alymore, from your description of him, would be at that time."

"Did Maitland go up to London in those days?" asked Spargo.

"Well, now, to show you what a good memory I have," he said. "I'll tell you of something that occurred across there at the Dragon only a few months before the Maitland af-my dear. I am thinking this over very seriously, for I don't feel that I will ever do much as an actress, while something tells me that I might make a name for myself as a dancer. Yalla!"

"Phew! Such is fame," said Fern at the end of this recital. "They might have known at the theater that you would be snapped up, double-quick time. Why shouldn't someone else want your looks and talents, as well as the little theater crowd? Of course I'm not going to attempt to advise you about this offer. You know what you want to do most, Gwenda, and whatever you decide on will be all right with me."

BOXING SOLONS OPEN SESSION IN NEW YORK TODAY

FORMER LIMA HI ATHLETES MAKING NAME FOR THEMSELVES ON GROVE CITY, PA. COLLEGE TEAMS—BIBLE IS HIGHLY HONORED

IMPORTANT BASEBALL MEETING STARTS IN CHI TODAY

CHICAGO.—In their work of reconstructing baseball this week, major and minor league magnates, who today will begin a three or four days' session at the Congress, will employ the use of a word that in other years was apparently of little importance to them. That word is "ethics."

Following the blow dealt to the national game last fall, when it was found crookedness had crept upon the playing field, the men who run the sport have been for the most part thoroughly convinced that the game of the future must be run and built upon much firmer and stronger foundations if it is to be restored to good standing with the American people. Ethics in baseball has become the all important thing.

President Hodder of the National League, stopping from his labor of framing the 1921 schedule for a few minutes yesterday, dwelt upon that point as the important idea of the reconstruction which he hopes will be completed in the next three or four days.

"There are many things that are likely to be changed," he said, "so that they will fit in with the general ethics of the new agreement between the major leagues, and the new agreement between majors and minors, which is to be presented to the latter. It is likely that a uniform of player's contract will be drawn up, one that shall embody the new principles of baseball."

PLAYERS AND MAGNATES CONCERNED

"I can't say just what clause has been inserted, but something should be put in to aid in putting down evils that have infested the game in the last few years. Players, magnates, the men of affairs, and everybody connected with the handling of the game, must be in accord with the ethical idea of the new agreement."

"It may be that a new set of rules will be drawn up for conducting the world's series in the future, as well as the distribution of money from the series, and from other post-season games. The idea of permitting the umpires in the big series to receive a percentage of the receipts, instead of a stated sum, may come up for discussion. It is possible that the National Commission, or rather the new governing body, may need a larger part of the receipts than the former 10 per cent, because under the new conditions it will require more funds to conduct the game."

MINOR MAGNATES PROMINENT

Minor league magnates, who go into session this morning, were most prominent about the hotel lobby yesterday, but few of them expressed an opinion on the prospect of their accepting the new agreement with the majors.

However, it was learned that a different attitude, one in favor of acceptance, was prominent instead of the supposed opposition. A copy of the new agreement between majors and minors, as drawn up by attorneys, was in the hands of the minor league drafting committee.

President Matthes of the Ontario League, a member of the committee, stated last night that after going over the copy with President Sexton of the National Association of Minor Leagues, he became firmly that majors and minors would get together with Judge Landis as the big boss of them all. Some concessions may be asked by the minors, and indications are they will be granted.

A. L. OWNERS NOT SIGNED

In the meantime, some importance seems to be in the fact that as yet the American league club owners signed the new agreement between the two major leagues. At the December meeting they voted, 7 to 1, to ratify the agreement, but after ratifying it, did not sign individually as did the National league men.

Now the minors seem to think the new major league agreement isn't in force until signed by the American league men, and until the major agreement is in force, the minors say they cannot form an agreement with that body. The failure of the A. L. men to sign appears to have left a loophole for trouble, but such can hardly occur unless a majority of them turn completely from the course they pursued a month ago.

GEORGES TO RETIRE IF WHIPPED

AMSTERDAM.—Georges Carpenter, champion heavyweight pianist of the European Sunday, in an interview in the Telegraaf Sunday, regarding his coming fight with the world's champion Jack Dempsey, expressed optimism over the outcome. He said it would be a hard fight, but that the result was not for him to predict.

"I'm rather inclined to be optimistic," Carpenter declared, "even if we're to eat tomorrow."

TO RETIRE IF BEATEN

He had nothing to offer regarding definite arrangements as to where the fight is to be held.

"Whether I retire from the boxing game, depends on the result of the match with Dempsey," Carpenter said. "If I am beaten I will retire, if not, I probably shall go on fighting for some time."

One of the main reasons for his coming to Holland, Carpenter said, was to visit the land of his wife's birth, revealing that Madame Carpenter was born in The Hague.

SPEED SURPRISES DUTCH

In an exhibition match last night with the Belgian boxer, Jules Léonars, Carpenter astonished the Dutch sportmen by his cleverness.

"He is even better than we expected," one of them said. "He can land five blows where another man lands one."

Carpenter said he might meet Frank Moran of Pittsburgh before his fight with Dempsey. Carpenter expects to visit the Scandinavian countries soon.

MAN-O'-WAR IS TO GET NEW HOME

LAWRENCE, Ky.—Notwithstanding the announcement made at a meeting of trumpet several weeks ago that Man-o'-War, Samuel D. Riddle's famous racing stallion, could be brought to Kentucky January 1, to make his future home and lead a breeding barn at Jimata, he is here under the supervision of Mr. Elizabeth Daingerfield, no more has yet been made to distract the serenity of the champion and take him out of his comfortable quarters at the Riddle farm near Philadelphia. Miss Daingerfield herself, who will have charge of the super horse, has no information as to when he will be shipped to the Blue Grass, and as the breeding season does not begin until about March 1, the opinion is expressed by prominent horsemen here that it will probably be the latter part of January or about the first of February before his owner sends him to the Blue Grass.

MAIDEN MAKES DEAL

Colonel John E. Madsen, master of Hunting, Pa., has just completed negotiations for buying to J. H. White for use of his Herkert stud, Hopkinsville, Ky., that sterling race horse and promising sire. The Flinn, son of the Futurity winner Oden and Lorraine by Star Shoot, The Flinn is to take the place of Jack Atkin, whose death a few weeks ago deprived the Herkert stud of the premier sire. The Flinn, before his retirement to the stud, was one of the best race horses this country has produced, having nineteen victories to his credit, among them the Withers, Belmont, Hamilton Derby, Matsonian and others. He was the leading race horse in 1915. He will be sent to Hopkinsville at once, so as to be ready to begin the 1921 season.

DOPE ON FISHER

H. C. (Bud) Fisher, famous captain and creator of "Mutt and Jeff," who is a newcomer in the thoroughbred game, has determined to buy a Blue Grass farm in the vicinity of Lexington, according to the statement of a personal friend of the cartoonist, and it is expected that he will come to Kentucky shortly to complete negotiations for a place, which it is understood, he has commissioned a local horseman to select for him.

It is the intention of the noted artist to breed a few horses each season to Prince Pal son of Prince Palantine and Wilton Maid II, and perhaps some other noted Blue Grass sires, until he acquires a string of winners of winning possibilities. Recently Mr. Fisher has added to his stable by the purchase of the useful colt Macmillions, now a sturdy 3-year-old, and a winner in the colors of his new owner at the New Orleans meeting.

NEED COACH AT PURDUE FOR 1921

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Dejected but not disconsolate, Purdue football fans are looking forward to the 1921 gridiron season during which they hope to see a team in action which will retrieve the fallen fortune of the Old Gold and Black.

Athletic authorities are looking for a coach to succeed Arthur Scanlon who, it is announced, will not return next season. Scanlon's contract with the university expired Jan. 1.

RUMOR IS DUNED

Rumors that Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football tutor, might be Scanlon's successor have been denied by Major Nelson A. Kellogg, director of athletics at Purdue.

Only two of the Boiler Makers' stars will be lost to the team next year by graduation, Cleary, left guard, and Stanwood center, being the last string seniors to depart.

With the experienced players who will return and a number of promising freshmen players, it is hoped that the Boiler Makers will fight their way up in the Western conference standing.

LOCAL BOYS MAKE GOOD ATHLETES

GROVE CITY, Pa.—Harold Bible, Lima, O., high school graduate, was selected as one of the halves for an all western Pennsylvania football team of Class B colleges. The selection was made by competent men who officiated in the contests.

Bible is considered one of the most remarkable finds of the year in western Pennsylvania. His speed and heady open field running won his birth. Roy Sackmiller of Lima High, played the other half on the college team. An injury at the first of the season slowed him up. He is held by the coaches to be a remarkable defensive man and one of the coming stellar athletes of western Pennsylvania colleges.

John Williams of the Kenyon college basketball squad of last year with an excellent athletic record to his credit at Lima High, of which school he is a graduate, also is a member of the squad. All three athletes are on the basketball team, too.

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

A act that is decidedly unusual in theme and delivery is the offering of Col. John A. Pattee and Comrade, being presented at the Orpheum the first half of this week.

These two old gentlemen are the only survivors of the original company of "Old Soldier Fiddlers". Col.

Pattee is a violinist and his comrade plays the banjo and between them they furnish music that is thoroly delightful, rendering the old time selections so dear to the hearts of the older generation. The act is genuinely ex-ellent and one of the best the Orpheum has staged for many a season. On Friday a complimentary performance will be given to all war veterans and their wives.

The Cigar Troupe have an important place on the program, presenting a series of Russian and foreign dances that are beautiful. The troupe numbers five performers

three young men and two ladies, every one of them an artist.

Bell and Bann, presenting "The Scandal Mongers," have an entertaining little skit that should please the majority. I enjoyed it immensely.

Charles Rodgers & Co. present a comedy, "The Ice Man," which is really funny in some spots and crude in others. Hale and DeVoe have a good little act entitled "A Beach

Flirtation," several songs, "clever dances and the usual repartee.

The Revolving Collins, roller skating artist, performs several strenuous feats and makes an excellent opener for the program.

"Hold Your Horses"

A street-cleaning hero in

"Hold Your Horses," Tom

Moore outdoes himself as a comedian and makes of his latest release a picture not easily forgotten.

The story is rather unique, all about an Irish immigrant who came to New York to make his fortune, but who started in as a street cleaner as the easiest way to attain his ambition.

His wife, a domineering, hasty specimen of womanhood, had enough backbone for the two of them and never lost an opportunity to show who was best in the household.

One day when the street cleaner was run over by a Victoria, occupied by a very grand lady and her very grand escort. The victim of course

Terry is leading lady for the brawny Mr. Bosworth and proves herself a winner.

So, with the exception of a very few loose ends and the strangeness of seeing Mr. Bosworth in a different role, "A Thousand To One" is a fine program picture, - with a well-worn plot, perhaps, but admirably worked out. You'll make no mistake in choosing this film if you like this red-blooded actor generally. It's shown at the Sigma.

NOTES

Here's the true story of Louise Fazenda's career in pictures told in her own words.

"I was born in Lafayette, Ind., but we moved from there when I was five months old," goes her story. "I wanted to be a school teacher. I had just entered college. Bad luck in a business venture proved disastrous to the family funds, and I was forced to quit during my first year. So I gave up the school teaching idea."

"We needed money, and a stock company, at Long Beach, was not far from home - we were living in Los Angeles. I think I lasted two or three weeks."

"Then, a neighbor told me about a moving picture company - a branch of the 101 Bison, and I went out."

"We were making a two-reeler, 'The Romance of the Utah Pioneers.' Indians were chasing Mormons and things. I got there too late. All the wives were gone. I sat down and cried. An assistant director - they were much kinder in those days - than now - came over and told me if I stayed way in the background, and kept the light off my blond hair I could play 'blind Indian.' I made

$2.50 the first day and $7.50 the first week. I played bits in these films and then went with Marion

Leonard's company. The first week

there I made $28."

"My next move was with Universal. My first role was that of a colored mammy. Sennett, rather Del

Ruth sent for me, and I went to the Sennett studios.

"The girl becomes attracted to a mine owner, whose life she saved from the wreck. Her husband discovers that these two are becoming interested in each other and there develops the usual triangle affair that you can finish out for yourself!

Does she go back to her husband?

Does her husband make the great sacrifice for his benefactor? That's what makes the picture as interesting as it undoubtedly is.

The settings are superb, the photography perfect and the supporting cast quite acceptable. Ethel Grey disappointed because I did not get the part. Del Ruth had seen my work and liked it, and so I was kept on playing after that time to time.

"Bits in the way one 'arrive' well, I am just where I am. My first real bit came at the Sigma studio, and I was given it because I could shoot a gun without shutting my eyes or turning my head. Some of the bits were with his bathing girls."

"I am now with the Special Pictures Corporation. "Early" will have left the Sigma studios, and I brought Director Noel Smith over with me to the new studio. He is busy on the first script for me.

Early in the spring Bud Jamison is coming over to play leads opposite me.

NEW YORK—Selling of popular issues was promptly resumed at the opening of today's stock market, last Saturday's sharp reversal marking further headway with the first half hour. Atlantic Gulf fell almost six points to the new low record of 61 1/2. Sears-Roebuck lost 3 points, Mexican Petroleum 2 1/2; Royal Dutch 2 5/8 and Baldwin Locomotive 1 3/8. Steels and coppers eased perceptibly, rails again losing ground. Preliminary quotations for exchange on London were materially higher, approximating the recent maximum rates.

Shorts encountered little opposition in the early dealings, their operations effecting further extensive depreciations in shippings, steels, equipments, oils and coppers. Motor specialties, leathers, textiles and unclassified shares also reacted sharply. Atlantic Gulf preferred fell 2 points, Crucible 2, Republic 2 1/2, 2 points, Crucible 2, Republic 2 1/2, and Vanadium and Bethlehem 1 and Mexican Petroleum and Royal Mexican Petroleum and Royal Dutch 3. Anaconda, Inspiration and American Smelting dropped 1 to 2 points, United States Rubber 3, Stromberg 3 1/2 and Studebaker and Chandler 1 1/2. Sears-Roebuck extended its loss to four points and General Asphalt and International Paper forfeited much of Saturday's gains.

Crucible and Mexican Petroleum led a rally toward noon and express company shares rose 3 to 4 points. British exchange was strong, demand bulls selling at 3.67, the highest quotation since last summer on prospects of a refunding of Anglo-American loans.

Shorts were severely punished in today's stock market, vigorous rallies in oils, steels, equipments causing urgent covering. Sales approximated 1,000,000 shares. The closing was strong.

"What's the trouble?" asked the man in the barber's chair.
"No trouble, I hope," said

"I'll do it right if it would be a good idea to have the children, who are staying with us, drop in on you in the course of the day. On the 15th I'll start the plan to get you little fellow to drop in on his own accord. The most honest charity covers a multitude of sins, and this is the most honest charity ever to give them to you."

All went well until it came to the turn of the seventh boy, who evidently with thoughts of other things, penny pinched and dropped it into the box. A cool and haughty air soon parted.

"Little Mary, who is just three years old, came home all excited. 'Mother, she said, 'the new people moving next door washed their clothes in a stove.'

"Why, my child, whenever told you that?" replied the mother.

The moving man said so. He was taking a funny looking stove in a box, and I asked him what was in it. He said it was a laundry stove."
